LOGISTICS Transportation

Logistics and transportation are vital to India's economy, contributing to GDP, job creation, and international trade.

Logistics is the process of acquiring, storing, and transporting goods to their final destination. The logistics industry in India is a key part of the economy, accounting for 13–14% of GDP. It includes transportation, warehousing, packaging, and distribution. Logistics companies help ensure that goods are delivered quickly and efficiently across India, which supports domestic consumption and economic growth.
